Rangsdorf, 24th of January 2019 – An unexplored garden of innovations for musicians will soon be available from Eventide's newest creation - The Rose: a cascading bouquet of sounds in a sleek, stripped-down, small footprint effects pedal. The Rose project began several years ago and was rooted in the desire to invent a new line of unique effects by carefully grafting digital delay into an analog platform. Eventide's mission was to cultivate a modulated delay that would feel not only "as analog as possible" but also be exquisite and precise. Eventide trusted that this research would yield a genesis of products that sound and behave differently than modern DSP-based effects. Rose is the culmination of this vanguard research.
